

©CLL 12794

FULL O' PEP!

APR 27 '22

By Hal E. Roach.

Smub Pollard complains of feeling drowsy -- nothing interests him -- nothing at all. Hastening his footsteps, he even goes so slowly that his sweetheart disapproves of having the nuptial day declared. Lucky for him, however, he read in the daily papers of the wonderful recovery of those suffering from the ailments he imagined he possessed, by having injected into them the monkeyglands. At the same time, a rival suitor for his sweetheart's hand is inoculated with the idea that goat glands will bring about an increased activity. Imagination works wonders and the story is based on the activities of both young men after having gained the treatment uppermost in their minds. Mischief-making pranks, funny antics and the dominant traits of the animals whose anatomy they had injected into their own, furnish the basis for this comedy.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress